

HOW 2 GET MORE FROM YOUR MATCH GROUNDBAIT

FEEDER and method fishing is a classic way to fish with your groundbait, and a great way to get your bait out to the far reaches of the lake. A well prepared groundbait will be sticky enough for any type of feeder/method, but loose enough to fall off when at the bottom of the lake. Top off your perfectly prepared feeder with the hookbait of your choice.

Choose from our wide-range of wafers and method hookbaits.

CUP IN with the pole to present your bait into a precise area. You can compress the groundbait into a ball or cup it in loose. Squeezing the bait more firmly will mean it gets to the lake bed in one piece, and is presented in a tighter area.

LIGHT & DARK groundbaits have their different uses. Darker groundbaits are often used in the clearer waters of the winter months. However they can still be effective in summer where fish are more wary.

LIQUIDS are a great way to enhance the attraction in your groundbait. You can add some liquid attraction to your water whilst preparing your groundbait, or even drizzle a bait sauce directly over the top of a feeder or bait ball. Check out our awesome range of bait sauces that are proven winners!

EXTRAS such as maggots and casters are a good way to keep the fish in your swim. Some groundbaits have a higher feed content than others, which may help you decide whether to add any extra food content. Don't spoil your peg by offering too much however, keep baiting up little and often.

Supplement low-feed groundbaits with extra food offerings.
